THEY CAN BENCHMARK AGAINST THE MOST COMPREHENSIVE DATA FROM SMALL AND LARGE U.S. EMPLOYERS.

SINCE 2005, United Benefit Advisors® (UBA) has gathered invaluable data from across the U.S. to construct the nation's definitive employee benefits database. This extensive collection of information forms the basis of our annual report, which offers an insightful analysis of national trends in employer-sponsored employee benefits plans segmented by region, state, industry, and business size.

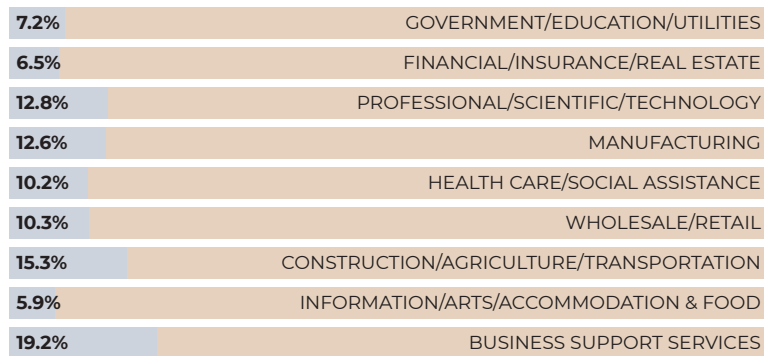

UBA Partner Firms position themselves and their clients to thrive in the evolving employee benefits landscape. They leverage the nation's definitive employee benefits database to provide clients tailored benchmarking assessments of national and local trends. These assessments empower clients to benchmark their employee benefits programs against competitors, enabling them to develop strategic, data-driven employee benefits programs to attract and retain top talent.

UBA data represents a significantly higher proportion of large and midsize than the national average of 0.2% and 1.5% reported by the NAICS for those groups.

UBA captures more employer data overall than the next three industry surveys combined.*

REGION

*In 2023, other employee benefits surveys included smaller data sets: Mercer surveyed 1,917 employers, Kaiser surveyed 2,133, and SHRM surveyed 3,129.

HEALTH PLAN DESIGN &amp; COST

Nationwide, health plan costs rose by 6.4% in 2023, up from the previous year's 5.7% increase. Small employers with 50 or fewer employees were the hardest hit by medical inflation.

INFLATION

- 2023 marks the second year of higher costs following a three-year trend from 2019 to 2021 of more manageable increases between 4% and 5%.
- This year's cost increases are still well below the record high of nearly 10% in 2018.

TREND TWO

COST MANAGEMENT STRATEGIES

Compared to last year, nearly 73% more employers added prescription drug tiers, making it the fastest-growing cost mitigation strategy.

IN 2023, employers relied on changing insurance carriers and making plan design adjustments to achieve lower costs. Employee contributions jumped nearly 22% from last year.

FULLY INSURED VS. SELF-FUNDED

APPROXIMATELY 24.5% of all employer-sponsored health plans with more than 25 employees have self-funded arrangements. In 2023, the largest groups increased self-funding arrangements by 6.5% over the previous year.

In 2023, self-funding grew 7.8% among groups with 50 to 199 employees and 4.4% among groups with 200 to 499 employees over the previous year, indicating continued interest in this option, even among smaller businesses.

TREND THREE

PLAN DESIGN, PREVALENCE, &amp; ENROLLMENT

Regional trends primarily drive plan prevalence.

PLAN DESIGN

- Though median health plan costs rose 6.4% overall this year, high deductible health plan (HDHP) costs rose more than 9% on average in many parts of the country, including in the North Central, Southeast, and Northeast.
- Median PPO plan deductibles, which employers are usually reluctant to change, are now $2,000, up from $1,800 last year.
- Employees have gotten a bit of a reprieve since out-of-pocket maximums for PPO plans have gone down from $6,250 to $6,000 in 2023.

AVERAGE MONTHLY PREMIUM CONTRIBUTION (all plans)

While 33.8% of employers increased employee contributions in 2023, most employers increased their percentage of premium contributions by just 3% on average across plan tiers.

PLAN PREVALENCE VS. ENROLLMENT

WHILE THE PREVALENCE OF PPO plans slightly increased since 2015, enrollment has declined. However, enrollment in HDHPs has increased significantly even without a corresponding increase in prevalence.

TREND FOUR

SMALL EMPLOYERS

In 2022, small groups were more reluctant to shift costs to employees and used this cost lever less often than their larger counterparts. However, in 2023, in the face of 7.1% cost increases for small group plans, this cost mitigation strategy increased by 43% among small businesses.

EMPLOYERS with 50 or fewer employees represent 53% of plans included in the 2024 UBA Employee Benefits Benchmarking Trends Report, making it ideal for small business benchmarking.

BY THE NUMBERS

- Among small businesses, the average annual cost per employee was $12,299 in 2023, reflecting both employer and employee contributions to health plan premiums.
- In 2023, health plan premiums among small businesses rose 7.1% from the previous year.
- Generally, 88.1% of small businesses with 25 to 50 employees have fully insured health plans, but that number is decreasing for some of these groups. Looking long-term at small groups with 25 to 99 employees, in 2015, only about 7% of these employers were self-funded. By comparison, in 2023, nearly 14% of these groups had a self-insured arrangement.

SELF-FUNDING

Self-funding continues to be an attractive option, growing 7.8% among groups with 50 to 199 employees, 4.4% among groups with 200 to 499 employees, and 6.5% among employers with more than 1,000 employees over the previous year.

IN 2023, 24.5% of employers had a self-funding arrangement. Conventional wisdom regards self-funded plans as the most viable plan for large employer groups; however, UBA Partner Firms find that self-funding is increasingly an option for small and midsize groups, enabling employers the flexibility to address the changing needs of their employees.

SMALL BUSINESS PREVALENCE

APPROXIMATELY 11.9% of groups with 25 to 50 employees were self-funded in 2023, compared to 12.5% the previous year. Nearly 22% of employers with 50 to 199 employees were self-funded in 2023, up 7.8% from the previous year.

MIDSIZE AND LARGE GROUP PREVALENCE

LOOKING AT GROUPS with 501 to 1,000 employees — 61% are self-funded, and approximately 79% of employers with more than 1,000 employees have self-funded plans, up 6.5% from last year.

SELF-FUNDING &amp; WELLNESS

WELLNESS PROGRAMS are an increasingly important part of an overall self-funding strategy. Self-funding arrangements incentivize employers to take an active role in improving employee health, and 73.4% of self-insured groups with more than 500 employees offer a wellness program. Though many analysts categorize wellness programs as only popular among the nation's largest employers, 36.4% of small to midsize businesses (500 or fewer employees) that are self-funded offer wellness programs, up from 23% in 2021, demonstrating that wellness offerings are not a luxury item, particularly when an employer is not fully insured.

PREMIUM CONTRIBUTIONS

EMPLOYERS ADOPTING self-funding arrangements can often customize their plan designs due to increased financial flexibility, claims data transparency, and tax advantages. For example, self-funded employers often contribute slightly more toward single coverage amounts to be competitive with what employees pay at their fully insured counterparts. Surprisingly, however, self-insured employers contribute significantly more to family premiums across all plan types and group sizes. UBA Partner Firms find these increased family contributions enhance employee participation, allowing employers to balance risk over a larger population while providing a potential retention benefit.

LIFE &amp; DISABILITY BENEFITS

Small businesses with 50 or fewer employees are driving growth in basic life insurance and short- and long-term disability insurance, with respective increases of 14.5%, 8.5%, and 12.4% over the past year.

LIFE INSURANCE COVERAGE

THIS BENEFIT is more commonly offered than disability coverage.

Most employers provide flat-dollar life insurance coverage. The larger the group, the more likely it is to offer benefits one or two times the employee's salary. In fact, 32% of large businesses with more than 500 employees offer two times the employee's salary.

SHORT-TERM DISABILITY BENEFITS

PREVALENCE of short-term disability (STD) benefits increases with employer size.

Most STD plans cover 60% of salary for 13 weeks. The larger the group, the more likely it is to provide benefits for up to 26 weeks.

BASIC LONG-TERM DISABILITY BENEFITS

LONG-TERM disability is slightly more prevalent than short-term disability

Most basic LTD plans cover 60% of an employee's salary up to age 67, following a 90-day elimination period.

TREND NINE

WELLNESS PROGRAMS

The fastest growing wellness offerings are discounts or reimbursements for health clubs or weight management programs, from 28% prevalence in 2022 to more than 50% of those offering wellness in 2023.

JUST 23.3% of all employers offer wellness programs, but that number jumps to 74% among large groups with more than 500 employees. However, 36.4% of self-funded small businesses (50 or fewer employees) offer wellness programs, up from 23% in 2021, demonstrating that wellness offerings are an increasingly important part of an overall self-funding and cost-containment strategy.
